Kyle S. Raph, Associate AIA

As a Project Manager at Koch Hazard Architects, Kyle works creatively with clients, consultants and contractors to produce high quality projects on time and within budget. His experience includes office buildings, higher education facilities, fitness centers and historic rehabilitation. He works with stakeholders to explore and implement innovative and economic project solutions from programming and conceptual design through construction administration and client move-in.

Kyle listens to client needs and desires, and coordinates schematic solutions into an exciting and appropriate final design. Using the latest computer-assisted design technology, Kyle effectively produces construction documents and performs construction administration in a consistent, timely manner.
