Koch Hazard Gallery presents 'Translations of Feeling and Form'

SIOUX FALLS, SD, NOVEMBER 26, 2008 - 'Translations of Feeling and Form', the newest art exhibition to be added to the growing downtown art scene, is available for viewing at the Koch Hazard Architects building on North Phillips Avenue in downtown Sioux Falls.

For over 10 years, Koch Hazard Architects has showcased local and regional artwork through its annual gallery show. The exhibition highlights art, architecture, and artists in the region and includes an architectural theme.

"We do what we can to encourage cultural awareness as well as support the local arts scene," explains Stacey McMahan of Koch Hazard Architects. "Our gallery exhibitions also demonstrate our commitment to art in architecture, and enliven our own work environment."

Mi Young Lee is one of the featured artists. Lee specializes in abstract oil paintings and participates in art exhibitions locally, regionally, nationally, and even internationally, winning many awards for her work. Lee also serves as an Adjunct Assistant Professor at The University of South Dakota College Of Fine Art.

Mary Selvig is another featured artist. Selvig is a freelance artist who specializes in pottery and watercolors, and has long idolized the elegance and industry of early Pueblo potters.

The Koch Hazard Gallery is open Monday through Friday, 8-5 p.m. until December 19, 2008. Koch Hazard Architects is an architecture, planning and interiors firm innovatively designing and effectively delivering quality projects that strengthen our clients' missions.
