SIoux FALLS, SD, MAY 15, 2008 - Koch Hazard Architects and South Dakota State University announce plans for a new symposium that will address current issues in sustainability and green communities. The conference is open to the general public.

Plain Green '08 will take place at the Washington Pavilion September 25 through September 26, with a pre-conference LEED workshop at the Museum of Visual Materials September 24. Topics to be addressed will include:

- The art of an Urban Plough (Matthew Moore)
- Green in the home
- Sioux Falls initiatives
- Smart energy and South Dakota green
- Wind and biofuels
- Downtown redevelopment
- Award-winning design (Shane Coen)

To sign up for the conference, register at <http://www.plaingreen.org>.
